

TAVOLINI ECHO

design Bartoli Design

ECHO, a balance of forces and a game of geometries.

A family of three low tables, complementary thanks to their heights, where a light structure made of brass supports the heavy materials such as marble and glass. A triangular brass frame is placed between the two circles: the glass top and the of marble basement with an offset between each other: basic geometries that live in a three dimensional space, determining the ECHO point of interest. The details and techniques reveal a sophisticated craftsmanship; brushed brass, Guatemala marble, Ash stone and extra-clear glass are some of the available finishes.
